Near Drownings Are Averted At Coleman

A Sunday afternoon family picnic almost ended in tragedy for the Tom Sudworth family of Coleman on Sunday, August 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Sudworth, accompanied by their four children, and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sudworth, were having a picnic and day of fishing at Island Lake, at Crows Nest, when the three young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. T. Sudworth narrowly escaped drowning.

The girls were walking around the shore of the lake while their father and seven-year-old brother were fishing on the other shore. The sisters, Arlene, 9, Linda, 10 and Jackie, 8, were walking hand in hand along the shore when Arlene and Jackie dropped into a culvert. Linda, who was in more shallow water, grabbed Jackie by the hair and pulled her to shore. She went back for Arlene and was so exhausted that she was unable to bring her out.

In the meantime Mr. Sudworth noticed the accident and rushed to the scene, pulling both girls from the lake. Arlene was in an unconscious state so he immediately applied artificial respiration for about one quarter of an hour before being relieved by three young tourists who had been summoned by the grandfather, Mr. Dave Sudworth.

Arlene was then taken to Crows Nest Pass Municipal Hospital and treated for shock. Linda and Jackie also suffered shock but were not hospitalized. Arlene was released Monday about 6 p.m.

The girls were non-swimmers and owe their lives to the quick action of their father and of course 10-year-old Linda.

Mr. Sudworth estimated the water was over his head.

Roy Bagley Appointed Honorary Member Trail Riders Group

BANFF, Alta. — Dr. Dorothy I. Muirhead of Hastings, Minn., was elected president of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies for the coming year at the association's annual meeting at the Banff Springs Hotel.

Dr. Muirhead succeeds N. R. Crump of Montreal, as chief executive of the organization which has an international membership of approximately 2,000.

A former member of the council, Dr. Muirhead has participated in a number of rides with the camp that this year has its base camp at the foot of 11,870-ft. Mt. Assiniboine, southwest of Banff. The meeting was held following the return of some 60 dude and veteran members from their six-day camp, one of four scheduled for the current summer season.

Dr. Muirhead is succeeded as vice-president by Clifford L. Stivers of Chicago, while Howard C. Watkins of Calgary, another veteran of the annual rides and master of ceremonies for the past few years, was also elected vice-president. Re-elected vice-presidents were W. H. Bertache, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont.; D. C. McVeigh, of Drumheller, and Ethel Knight of Banff.

Nine new names were added to the list of council members.

They are Cora Arends, Edmonton; Robert L. Park, Glasboro, N. J.; Mrs. Gertrude Tees, Vancouver; Mrs. Pat Waite, Calgary; Phyllis Chaster of Los Angeles, Calif.; Hamilton Neelds, of Edmonton; Eva Moody, Transjillo, B. C.; Mary S. Lore, Mrs. Bill Burles, Cochrane.

Ray Bagley, Coleman, veteran member whose original poems of the foothills have won him widespread acclaim, was appointed an honorary member of the association.

Two more rides, each of five days' duration, will be held at Mt. Assiniboine August 22-25 and August 25-28. These will follow the annual camp in the little Yoho Valley of the Skyline Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies, a sister organization of the trail riders.

Kananaskis Camp Facilities Crowded

Hundreds of tourists are passing through the Crows Nest Pass towns daily and many commenting on the beauty of the area and the lush growth of grass and trees on the nearby mountains.

Pollage and grass this year are exceptionally thick and deep green due to the steady rainfall that fell here during most of the month of June and July.

Almost daily rain storms were experienced in this district for two months. Numerous visitors, tourists and campers are visiting the Pass in hopes of finding a good camping spot along the Kananaskis highway, but this is almost an impossibility. Tents by the scores can be found in the near vicinity of the many mountain streams and camp shelters along the scenic highway which passes through a network of ideal trout fly fishing waters.

Each day scores of cars can be seen stopped at the view points in the famous Frank Slide, while shutter bugs are busy taking snaps of the scenic slide area.

At Lundbreck Falls, too, just 14 miles east of Banff, numerous campers are finding an ideal picnic and fishing spot near the Crows Nest River, where the provincial government has built an excellent camp shelter for use of the public.

Here too, fishermen never go away without at least hooking onto several of the many Rainbow trout in the stream.

Burns Lake and Lee Lake just south of Banff make up the appearance of a miniature Coney Island where hundreds of persons gather daily to picnic, swim, fish and boat in the cool waters and along the shores of the lakes.

Crows Nest Lake, just a short run west of Coleman, is also getting its share of visitors who are enjoying an excellent recreation of fishing, swimming and boating on the lake. Another camp shelter has been built by the provincial government this spring near the Alberta - British Columbia border and numerous visitors find it convenient to stop at this point and enjoy the sights and cool breezes of the lake.

Camp shelters in the town park at Coleman and at the east end of Banff are filled daily and registration books at the shelters indicate visitors from 13 American States as well as from abroad.

The visitors' comments in the books indicate that the shelters are greatly appreciated and that similar projects should be carried out by more communities across the Dominion.

Former Coleman Resident Passes In Calgary

David (Diotellevi) Gentile, 81, 804 22nd Ave. S.E., died in Holy Cross Hospital, Calgary, on Monday, August 18, after a brief illness.

Born in Italy he moved to Ontario in 1906 and in 1910 to Coleman, where he operated a shoe repair business.

He retired in 1948 and went to Calgary three years ago.

Mr. Gentile attended St. Ann's Church in Calgary and was a member of the Italian Society in Coleman.

Surviving are his wife, Julia; two daughters, Mrs. A. (Dora) Montalbetti, Banff, and Mrs. N. (Margaret) Ford of Calgary; two sons, Angelo of Cranbrook, B. C., and Bruno of Coleman; 10 grandchildren, one great-grandchild and one brother, Alexander in Italy.

Parishioners and friends met for prayers at St. Ann's Church on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and requiem high mass was celebrated at the church Wednesday at 10 a.m.

Interment was in the St. Mary's cemetery.

WE'RE NOT MIND READERS

Occasionally we hear complaints that items in which a person or persons are interested does not appear in print. The cause of this is that some people expect us to have a seventh or eighth sense of knowing what is to happen. If they have something of interest, surely it requires little effort to notify us rather than squawk about it.

Padre Moss Scores Social Coup

Of interest to parishioners of St. Luke's Anglican Church in Blairmore and St. Albans Church in Coleman and to the people of the Crows Nest Pass is the fact that Padre Moss, formerly of the district and now of Haney, B. C., received a visit from Princess Margaret on her recent tour of British Columbia.

Reports indicate that Padre Harry Moss, who after quietly breaking every rule of the protocol book, monopolized the Princess of six minutes at his tiny Church, St. John the Divine at Haney, B.C.

Despite the fact that dozens of civic officials had been chopped off with seconds, the unorthodox minister introduced all his lay officials and gave his parishioners the opening for the polliwog scene in the entire record of the tour. To top it all off he got the Princess to accept a local photographer's huge portrait of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh, without first clearing the gifts with numerous royal officials.

Padre Moss, who is a veteran of the First World War, and a sailor of the Second World War, a padre in the Iraq oil fields, wrote the Princess last May. The invitation was sent through the Rev. Dr. "Tubby" Clayton in London, who was his padre in 1914 when Padre Moss was a lance corporal.

The Church, alleged to be oldest in British Columbia, was built in 1859 as garrison church for Fort Langley, B. C., when it was still called Derby. In 1882 the 75 seat wooden church was floated across the Fraser River and set on its present location. Prior to the visit by the Princess into the building, RCMP checked it.

The Princess went into the church through the front door and out the side door. In the Church the Princess was presented with a bouquet of flowers by a choir girl Toni Arher, after which she walked towards the rectory to meet the church officials. After meeting, the officials the Princess stepped down from the rectory verandah and walked into the crowds of people for a short chat.

As Padre Moss stated, he didn't expect her, but the occasion marked the social coup of the Princess' tour of British Columbia.

Sept. 1 and 6 Opening Days For Alberta Duck Hunters

Duck and goose hunting opens September 1 in the northern zone of Alberta, and September 6 in the southern zone, the Canadian Wildlife Service, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources announced today.

As usual, there is no open season for Ross's goose and wood ducks.

The seasons are of the same duration as last year, closing November 29 in the north and December 13 in the south. Wilson's snipe seasons are September 1 - 30 in the northern zone and September 6 - October 11 in the southern zone.

Main change in the migratory bird regulations is that no hunter may use a boat to drive birds within range of a waiting hunter.

Sidewalk Construction

Department of highways crews under foreman Joe Hanrahan of Coleman, are doing an excellent job on the pedestrian sidewalks on both sides of the cut on Highway 3 in East Coleman.

The concrete four and one-half foot wide walks have been laid and forms removed. Workmen filled in on both sides of the walk with shale and fine gravel.

The walks are about a foot higher than the highway surface and will provide a good system of drainage during the spring and wet weather.

The walks were built as a passage way for residents living on the east side of the cut and having to travel to and from the town of Coleman.

The work was promoted by Bill Kovach, M.L.A. of Hillcrest, in an effort to relieve the unemployment situation in the Crows Nest Pass.

Of approximately 280,000 immigrants admitted to Canada last year the largest group was British.

'Pass Band Collects Honors At Whitefish

Unaware they were participating in a competition, WO1 F. Bedington, conductor of the RCME (M) Band, was pleasantly surprised at the conclusion of the gala celebration at Whitefish, in Montana, when he was advised that his band had been judged the finest in the celebration.

As a result of their fine showing the band was presented with a handsome trophy that will be kept permanently by them. The trophy will be shown in stores throughout the Pass.

Appearing at Whitefish with the kind permission of Capt. J. R. MacLeod, the band also entertained at a concert besides participating in the parade.

Many of the bandsmen were accompanied by their families and all report they were treated royally by our American neighbors.

Organized in September of 1954 the 31st Sq. RCME Band draws for its membership from all hands between Cowley and Fernie, B. C.

At full strength the band consists of 29 members with 24 of the bandsmen making the trip to Whitefish.

The age range of the players is from 16 to 60. The band will conclude an active summer of playing at Kimberley, Lethbridge, Hillcrest, Blairmore and Coleman by participating in the B. C. centennial celebrations at Fernie on Labor Day.

WO1 Bedington, conductor of the band, comes from a family well known in musical circles as his father directed several bands in the Crows Nest Pass.

WO1 Bedington also has had extensive band experience both as a player and conductor. During the Second Great War he directed the station band at No. 8 Bombing and Gunnery School at Lethbridge. His son, Sgt. F. Bedington, is also a bandman, being a member of the Western Command Airforce Band stationed at Edmonton. At present the band is touring B. C., playing at several centennial affairs.

Artificial Ice Plant Job Awarded

Canadian Ice Machine Company of Calgary has been awarded the contract for installing the artificial ice plant in the Coleman arena.

The plant was approved during a recent vote of the ratepayers.

Work on the project is expected to be started in the very near future.

While the ice machine company will not lay the concrete floor in which the freezer pipes will be laid, it will supervise this important phase of the work.

The arena is being prepared for installation. Work is under the direction of George Jenkins, who is anxious to have volunteers come forth to help even if only possible to be there at nights.

Post Office Work Nears Completion

Work crews are completing the interior work on the new post office building in Coleman and it is expected that the official opening of the new federal building will be held in the very near future.

While a crew of men is putting the finishing touches to the interior of the building, another crew is levelling off the grounds around the building where a lawn will be planted around the post office. The new building, located on the two corner lots just east of the Roky Theatre, add much to the appearance of the Coleman main street.

New Speed Limits On Trans-Canada Banff National Park

Two increased speed limits were introduced recently on the 53-mile section of the Trans-Canada Highway that runs through Banff National Park, the National Parks branch of the federal Resources Department said today.

Cars and buses may now travel at 60 miles per hour; trucks at 50 miles per hour. In each case this is a ten-mile-an-hour increase and makes driving speeds in the park uniform with those in force throughout the rest of the province of Alberta.

The change applies to the Trans-Canada highway only and does not affect speeds on the alternate route the old No. 1 highway. These remain at 50 miles per hour for cars and buses; 40 miles per hour for trucks. Nor does it apply to nearby Yoho National Park in British Columbia, where the B. C. maximum is 50 miles per hour.

The Trans-Canada highway in Banff has a two-lane, 24 foot driving surface with 10-foot strips on each side for parking. Painting in of the broad white line that separates travelling surface from shoulder is proceeding and this work may be completed during the summer. At present, however, drivers sometimes make the mistake of assuming that the side sections are part of the travelling surface and so treat it as a four-lane highway.

The National Parks Service in the interests of public safety wishes it to be known as widely as possible that the Trans-Canada Highway in Banff Park is a two-lane highway and that the 10-foot shoulder sections are for parking only.

Old Age Pensioners Hold Convention

The seventh provincial convention of the Old Age Pensioners' Association was held in the auditorium at Pincher Creek on August 13th.

Officers, delegates and members from Lethbridge, Fort Macleod, Taber, Coleman and Pincher Creek were in attendance.

A wonderful time was had by all. Evelyn Jones, Press Corr.

Pass Priests Have Colorful Holiday in Eastern Canada

Rev. Father S. Henke of the Bellevue and Hillcrest Catholic Churches, and Rev. Denis Fleming of the Holy Ghost Catholic Church in Coleman, have returned to their respective parishes this week after having spent a one-month holiday visiting numerous points along the East coast of Canada and in the United States. While they were on holiday Father Henke and Father Fleming were relieved by Father Zabka of Calgary and Father Sprusnski of Ontario.

While in Eastern Canada Father Fleming visited with relatives in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia. The two men also were taken on a tour of the Princess mine in Nova Scotia which extends three miles under the Atlantic.

The tour marked Father Henke's first visit in a mine, while Father Fleming had had prior experience in the mines in the Pass area. The two also visited the Shrine of St. Anne De Beau Preaux north of Quebec City, and also visited St. Joseph's Oratory in Montreal. While in Quebec Father Henke and Father Fleming took in the celebration held on the anniversary of Champlain.

While in Nova Scotia the pair visited St. Francis Xavier in Antigonish where they met Sister Irene who is Superior at Bethany Convent. Sister Irene is well known in the Crows Nest Pass, having been Superior at St. Alphonsus Convent in Blairmore for some time before leaving here two years ago. Father Henke stated that Sister Irene sent greetings and best wishes to all parishioners in the Crows Nest Pass area.

Another highlight of Father Henke and Father Fleming's visit was a visit through Notre Dame and Wilson Colleges in Saskatchewan. He also visited through Notre Dame College in Indiana. While in the United States the pair visited Father Flanagan's Boys' Town in Omaha, Neb., and also attended a baseball game between Boston and Cleveland in Cleveland. While in Iowa the couple were guests of relatives of Father Henke.

Working On Approaches

The new bridge over the Crows Nest River between Bellevue and Hillcrest has been completed and workmen are working on the approaches to the new structure.

An excellent rock work job has been done under the bridge to keep loose earth from sliding into the river. When completed and opened the bridge and the new stretch of road will eliminate two dangerous curves in the highway as well as giving motorists a better view of the railway crossing north of the bridge.

The new structure is wider than the present bridge which will be removed on completion of the new structure.

A mountain peak in the Fairholme Range of the Canadian Rockies just east of Banff National Park has been named in honor of Her Royal Highness, Princess Margaret. Hon. E. C. Manning, Premier of Alberta, announced the naming of Princess Margaret Mountain at Banff ceremonies welcoming Her Royal Highness to Alberta. Princess Margaret arrived in Banff on Saturday evening, July 26. She spent Sunday and Monday at the famed resort and witnessed miniature stampede in Calgary Tuesday before leaving for Saskatchewan.

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hills)

Be Free

I have a friend who is a slave. He has earned freedom, but squandered it. And I am afraid he will be a slave until the day he dies.

He has made very good money in his day, but spent it foolishly. When others were buying Victory Bonds, he felt quite smart because he sold his as soon as he got them. He was a selfish spender, last to pick up the check in a restaurant, but first to buy every new gadget for himself. Today, he is paying a high price for his selfishness.

The other day a few of us planned a fishing trip; but our spendthrift friend could not join us. "I'm broke," he said, "and I sold my fishing gear over a year ago."

I had a long chat with this man last night. It was a sad story of mishandled funds, impulse buying, lack of investments either in bonds or, indeed, in friendship. He had spent none of his resources on others and consequently, there weren't many people ready or willing to help him.

He still has his job, but to him the future looks grim — as soon as he gets his cheque, his creditors are after him. Or he has kited cheques he must cover. Yet he still feels that if he could get one more big loan to "consolidate" his debts, he would be all right.

I felt sorry for him, but irked with him at the same time. Even yet, if he settled down to it, he could be free from debt and on the road to independence within less than two years. And to do so he would not have to deprive himself of any of the real necessities of life.

What is the basic trouble with this man? I think the trouble is that he does not love freedom. He does not value independence. His cheque is merely the passport to satisfaction for his daily whims or appetites.

Freedom is a precious thing. That's what many of us work for, one of our great incentives. Every child should have instilled in him the love of freedom just as every nation should strive to be free. It is worth passing up a few present luxuries in order to enjoy the greatest boon of all—freedom and independence.

A Farmer Blows His Top

A farm friend with whom I've had many an argument came into my office today waving a clipping from the paper.

"Well," he said, "do you see what I see?"

I nodded. "It looks as if a few companies in the oil business are trying to hornswoogle the government into helping build a pipeline... just the way the Trans-Canada Pipeline people did."

"Not only that," he said, "they want the Montreal market protected for them. They're using Lebanon as an excuse."

"Not only Lebanon," I said mildly. "The oil industry has a lot of problems, with the U.S.A. getting cold to them. It's a risky business —"

"Ha!" he snorted, like an oil gusher blowing in "you see what I mean about you? You never want the farmers to get any government help, but you defend the oil people."

"Ha, right back at you!" I told him. "If I thought there was any chance that our government would get into another pipeline adventure, I'd yell louder than you — and that's something!"

"Well," he snapped, "start yelling, mister. It'll be the same old story. Politicians are all the same!"

I don't know that Ottawa ever pays any attention to me, but I'm willing to yell good and loud that if this new government goes into a crude oil pipeline deal it's going to get just what the old government got — a thumping from voters, even here in the West.

Sure, we know the oil business is risky and we want to see it do well. But we also know fortunes have been made, and most oil companies have done all right. If a portion of the oil industry wants the Montreal market, let them build their own pipeline. Surely they haven't given up on other markets, just because the U.S.A. has been a bit tough with them lately. I thought that oil men would be the very last to go running to government for help at the first sign of a setback, but apparently the subsidy disease is catching.

I'll guarantee one thing. If a small section of the oil industry is able to talk the government into helping to build a pipeline or carve out a market, the entire industry will live to regret it. If they get the pipeline they will get a whole caboodle of regulations and restrictions along with it. Then they'll scream for good old free-enterprise again.

As for me, I was glad to see my farmer friend blow his top about subsidies. I wish he'd feel the same way about some farm subsidies. Subsidies of any kind ought to be reserved for the gravest emergencies. And certainly the oil industry isn't on the verge of bankruptcy yet!

8,000,000 Canadians In Danger From Over-Dieting

If you are one of the 8,000 Canadians thinking about going on a diet, you'd better think twice about it, reports Robert O'Brien in August Liberty Magazine. "Many doctors now believe over-eating is often a natural reaction to form a barrier against the tensions of modern living," he reports. "Without the solace of food for relief, anxieties break through to bring unhappiness, lost jobs and broken homes."

"Some people have to eat when they feel blue, angry, sexually excited, apprehensive or ashamed," Dr. Walter W. Hamburger, University of Rochester said. "It is as if eating protected them from feeling too much."

Cornell's School of Nutrition has just completed a comparative study of dieters and emotional stability. Of 116 cases studied only 23 were what Dr. Charlotte M. Young, professor of medical nutrition, considered to be emotionally stable enough to diet successfully.

Parents with overweight children frequently find the child's weight drops to normal when he is encouraged in an activity he does well. A teen-age boy, 30 pounds too heavy for his age, lost 25 lbs. when he got interested in magnetic recording. Now, his mother worries because she can't pry him loose from his tape recorder to eat his supper.

A 20 pound overweight minister's wife went on a crash diet, to drop from a size 18 to a fashionable 14. "She changed from a tireless worker, with the patience of Job, to a peevish pessimist, upsetting herself, her husband and the people around her," reports Mr. O'Brien. "Her doctor took her off the diet. She again is the plump, cheerful delight of the parish."

In spite of these difficulties many people can and should reduce. — "But," says writer O'Brien, "be sensible about it. Set a moderate diet, find time for regular exercise — don't be shamed into a diet — fat isn't a moral issue; set a modest immediate goal — say a pound a week; allow for an occasional relapse, and, above all, try to discover why you over-eat. The answer may decide whether you should diet or not."

Canadian Doctors Pioneer "Frozen Sleep" Surgery

Pioneer "Frozen Sleep" surgery by researchers, under Dr. Wilfred Gordon Bigelow at University of Toronto, has led to the performing of hitherto impossible operations — reports J. D. Ratcliffe in August Liberty Magazine.

Experimenting with hibernating ground hogs, Dr. Bigelow discovered it was possible, by reducing the body temperature to 68 degrees, to cut off blood supply to heart and brain for 10 to 15 minutes without harm. Since then more than 1,000 delicate operations have been performed with the aid of "hypothermia", as the new cooling process is called.

In October, 1955, Kenneth Ross, a 25 year old athlete from Durham, Ont., underwent three "deep freezing" operations in a row at Toronto General Hospital — one on the main artery, near his heart, then two delicate brain operations a week later. Mrs. Sleeman, a 43 year old Vancouver housewife, who underwent "deep freeze" for a rheumatic heart, said of the cooling process "I didn't shiver at all. I seemed to be lulled to sleep."

One 26 year old woman, weakened and wasted by a hole in her heart, was put to sleep and cooled to 72 degrees while the hole was repaired. Two months later she was doing housework.

When the body is cooled below 90 degrees, the cold itself acts as a pain killer and sleep producer, so that often, no further anesthetic is necessary. And, since virtually all anesthetics are poisonous, hypothermia has the added advantage of hastening recovery from difficult operations, reports Ratcliffe.

"Hypothermia is proving exceptionally useful in brain surgery," Ratcliffe says. "With the patient cooled to the low 80s, the blood supply can be cut off for up to 20 minutes. That gives surgeons time to work with new, unhurried confidence."

While 86 degrees is considered today's safe temperature, far lower ones may be achieved soon. Dr. Bigelow: "It is quite possible that, within the next few years, prolonged interruption of the circulation at very low temperatures will be achieved." When this happens prolonged operations — out of reach today — may become as common as tonsillectomies.

Always Works

Sleepers may laugh at the use of hypnosis in dentistry, but a young doctor uses it in a manner that may be adopted universally.

A suggestion made to a person in a hypnotic trance becomes an irresistible command. So the dentist simply suggests to the hypnotized patient that his teeth will start aching if he doesn't pay up his bill right away. Not only painless dentistry but painless payments.

The Way It Works

"No doubt about it," declared a chap who had been a detective for 23 years, "experience is the best teacher. There was a time when I was fresh out of police school," he continued, "and I'd raid a crap game, arrest and process all the gamblers, mark all the evidence, then appear in court on the case half a dozen times. After the politicians decided how to dispose of the matter, they'd usually just turn everyone loose."

"That taught me the right way to raid a crap game. I just walk in, holler 'POLICE!' then grab the money. By the time the money's counted, everybody has cleared out — CASE IS CLOSED."

Inevitable Result

Grandmother (looking at granddaughter's bathing suit): "If I could have dressed like that when I was a girl, you'd be six years older today."

What you don't know to be true might better be not said.
— William Feather in Copperweld

BERTHA BEAULIEU

On July 23rd, little Bertha Beaulieu of Dawson Creek had the experience of a lifetime when she presented Princess Margaret with "a present for the Princess". Bertha, as everyone in the area knows, presented Princess Margaret with a bouquet of flowers on behalf of the children of the Vancouver Prevention, in future to be known as the Princess Margaret Children's Village.

Bertha will undoubtedly remember her brief moment of glory throughout her entire life. To come so close to a real live Princess is a real experience for any 12-year-old girl. It was a thrilling, frightening — everything all at once. There are thousands of B.C. children who would do anything for the privilege and yet Bertha has paid a terrible price for it — she has tuberculosis.

In years gone by to be stamped with the sign T.B. was like the Kiss of Death. Today T.B. can be cured. It won't be very long until Bertha will be back home telling her friends about meeting the Princess — everything all at once. There are thousands of B.C. children who would do anything for the privilege and yet Bertha has paid a terrible price for it — she has tuberculosis.

The prevention of T.B. depends on Joe and Jane Public, on their knowing the facts about T.B. and doing their part. How are you fied for facts? Have you had a chest X-ray this year?

Letter to the Editor

2760 Beach Drive,
Victoria, B.C.
Aug. 5, 1958.

Mr. Tom Holstead,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alta.

Dear Tom:

Please find enclosed cheque for $3.00 so as we can have The Journal for another year.

Both Mrs. Pattinson and I are very glad that you have been restored to good health again, and that you will be well for a long time to come so that you can continue to publish the good news of Coleman for a long time to come.

I have many happy recollections of my years spent in Coleman, as I was a councillor for six years then for eight years I was Mayor from 1932 to 1940 during the very hard and trying years, when there was very little work and very little money.

I will remember people coming by any old car for transportation and when they got to the Barrier set up at Crows Nest by the B. C. police, most of them were turned back and it was up to the town of Coleman to feed them and house them till ways and means were found out so as they could either go on to B. C. or return from where they came.

It is just 53 years past July since a Mr. John Stout and I got off the train at Frank, Alberta, and we were thought that Frank must have been one of the last places that God had made, but we soon found out that there were just as nice and just as good people living in Frank as you would find anywhere you wanted to go, and I can still remember many happy times we spent in Frank.

It is just 35 years past since I came to Coleman and started my hardware and furniture business and I am still very appreciative of the very fine patronage I received from the people of Coleman, and while there I tried my best to make the town of Coleman a better place to live in, and I am very sorry to see so many of my old friends passing out, and to the ones that are left to mourn their loss, both Mrs. Pattinson and myself extend our deepest sympathy.

Sincerely yours,

George Pattinson.

Excellent Progress On Canada Conversion Loan

Reports of conversion of Victory Loan bonds into the new Canada Conversion Loan of 1958 continued to flow into the Bank of Canada from all parts of the country. One of the largest applications received to date came from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. which is converting $100 million Victory Loan bonds purchased during the war time into the new bonds, principally the 21 year maturity.

Mr. Kenneth J. Hawkins, deputy provincial treasurer of the province of Alberta, has announced the provincial government has converted $53,023,000 of its $57,000,000 Victory Loan bonds which were held by various government accounts. In making this announcement, Mr. Hawkins stated that this action has resulted in a substantial increase in income for the province. The conversion permits turning in bonds paying 3 per cent for the new bond which will pay 4½ per cent, together with receipt of a large cash adjustment. He also stated that the new issue has provided an excellent opportunity to improve the position of the government's portfolio and that full advantage of this has been taken by the province.

From Toronto it was reported that North American Life Assurance Company had completed arrangements to convert $3 million into the largest maturity.

The Prudential Assurance Co. Ltd. of England has purchased $1 million of Victory Bonds for conversion into the 4½ per cent bonds. Among the fire and casualty insurance companies three affiliated companies, Canadian General Insurance Company, Toronto General Insurance Company and Traders General Insurance Company have converted a total of almost $4 million. The Waterloo Mutual Fire Insurance Co. has converted $595,000 into the 4½ per cent 25 year bonds.

From St. John's it was announced that the Newfoundland Savings Bank had converted $2 million of its eligible bonds into the new long term issue.

The treasurer of the city of Saskatoon stated that the city had turned in its Victory Bonds and purchased an additional amount for conversion, giving a total subscription of $1,200,000.

The Jesuit Fathers of Upper Canada have become the third religious body to convert their holdings.

Corporations are lending their support to the offer. Among those reported recently were Shawinigan Water and Power Co. Ltd. of Montreal; Quebec Power Co. of Quebec City; British American Oil Co. Ltd. of Toronto, and Office Specialty Manufacturing Co. of Newmarket, Ont.

The Pension Fund of the Bell Telephone Company has converted $7 million Victory Bonds into the new 4½ per cent bonds and has arranged to subscribe for a further one million of 4½ per cent bonds.

False position of the working wife

Traditional North American attitudes toward the working wife are altering, according to the world famous anthropologist, Dr. Margaret Mead in a recent issue of a national magazine.

It is considered all right for a woman to work before the arrival of children, and again after they are partly or fully grown.

"The period of complete commitment to the home is narrowing down to the period where there are no small children," is Dr. Mead's view.

Yet working married women—some 585,000 in Canada in February, 1958—still have "many problems." Some are due, Dr. Mead found to several "fictions" which developed while men — and women — were getting used to the changed situation.

Because it was necessary to "protect both partners' pride, the real reason for the wife working, need for money, was glossed over". Boredom was often offered as a reason. But this would "backfire" because there was then no reason why the wife, tired after a full day's work . . . shouldn't do the housework which hadn't been enough to occupy her time.

Another fiction put the husband in the position of "the indulgent male who lets his wife earn pin money". Here a second fiction came in. If it was pin money it was "her pin money" to do with as she liked.

All of this adds up to a great deal of confusion, evasion and unhappiness for a great majority of the households in which the wife works, Dr. Mead asserted.

She suggested that "the time is probably now ripe for the establishing of new conventions which will make the city wife who goes to work as simple and expected a part of life as the farmer's wife who left her kitchen door to weed the lettuce or feed the poultry."
